Manuel Kosok

Klaus Karcher was an independent management consultant for many years before he took over the development of new business areas at grapho metronic in 2018 as Head of Sales and Marketing. Since 2020, in addition to these tasks, he has also taken over responsibility for the finances and the administration department.

Klaus Karcher sees two main focal points in the focus of his new task as CEO. On the one hand, the company is focusing on innovative products in its core market and an expansion of the product portfolio for the changing printing industry. On the other hand, grapho metronic is working very successfully on the expansion of new business areas within the framework of Industry 4.0. As an OEM partner in mechanical engineering, the company expects further important growth impulses for the company's development with its expertise in the field of optical measurement technology.

Although Manuel Kosok is leaving grapho metronic and manroland Goss web systems GmbH, he will remain with the parent company Possehl. With Possehl Analytics GmbH, he is building up a company in the future market of data analysis for the Lübeck-based group. In this future technology, Possehl Analytics GmbH already offers practical services around the topics - procuring data - storing data - evaluating data - visualising data - for all production companies.
